

LOUIS XIII COGNAC RARE CASK 42.1– WONDER OF NATURE

BID NOW

At LOUIS XIII, we think a century ahead. Over 150 years ago, in 1874, Paul Emile Rémy Martin created a whole new category by blending the House's oldest and rarest eaux-de-vie from Grande Champagne, the first cru of Cognac.

LOUIS XIII Cognac is the ultimate expression of the mastery of Time.

Throughout its history, inexplicable and unpredictable, a single tierçon unveiled its uniquely exceptional aromatic profile, giving a distinct expression of LOUIS XIII Cognac never encountered before, and with a 42.1% ABV.

LOUIS XIII Cellar Master Baptiste Loiseau nurtured the unique expression of this single tierçon, giving life to LOUIS XIII RARE CASK 42.1.

"Rare casks are unpredictable wonders of nature: finding one is an exceptional moment in the life of a Cellar Master as such a discovery may never happen in a single lifetime," says Baptiste Loiseau.

To pay tribute to this true wonder of Time and Nature, LOUIS XIII Cognac invites you on a two-day memorable journey in Cognac, France, at the cradle of its legacy. As you embark on this journey, unravel the secrets of LOUIS XIII history and the wonder of RARE CASK 42.1 in places suspended in Time.
